ALBAN BOOKS APPOINTS NEW M.D.

Alban Books Ltd is pleased to announce that Wendy Rimmington will be joining the company on the 1st November as their Managing Director. She will be continuing in the footsteps of the former Managing Director, Jane Grounsell, who sadly died in September after a long illness.

Based in Edinburgh, Wendy brings broad experience in business development and management, including strategic planning, human resources, finance, and international sales. She has worked in reference (Chambers Harrap) and trade publishing (Penguin Group) and for the BBC and Christian Aid, and has experience in US publishing as well, most recently with Pearson in Boston working on e-publishing development.

Wendy Rimmington said: "Having moved to Edinburgh in 2004 to run Chambers Harrap, after a very happy career at Penguin and the BBC, I am delighted to once again be working so closely with American Publishers and to have the chance to continue Jane's legacy".

Claire VanderKam Vice President and Treasurer at Wm. B. Eerdmans said on behalf of the Board: "As Alban turns a page in its history, we are confident that Wendy is the right person to lead us forward. I believe Wendy and Alban Books will be a winning combination."
